

AITech's VoIP Service cuts costs by combining voice and data lines while delivering powerful productivity-enhancing functionality.

AITech VoIP Services

VoIP (Voice over Internet Protocol) is revolutionizing the way we communicate by eliminating the need for traditional local phone service and equipment. By using your broadband connection for telephone calls, VoIP gives you control over your Internet and telecommunications services. In addition, it offers many convenient and time-saving features that greatly improve the functionality of your telephony services.

Imagine saving up to 50% on business calls while enjoying the added convenience of:

- Voicemail delivered to your email
- Remote call management
- Follow-me services

If this interests you, call us today at 1-800-300-5408 to switch to AITech's VoIP and start enjoying the future of communication technology today!

AITech VoIP Features

With AITech VoIP you gain access to powerful productivity-enhancing functionality. Here are just a few examples of the added benefits of AITech's VoIP Services:

Unified Messaging: Manage all of your messages in ONE place! Receive voicemail to your email inbox and reply via email or "click-to-dial" to return the call. You can even forward voicemail to others via email.

Remote Office: Redirect your office phone number and its functionality anywhere you want. Place outgoing calls as if calling from work. To the recipient the calls look like they came from your office and the charges are conveniently billed to you office.

Virtual Number: Gives you the ability to have a local number anywhere in the US. Place and receive calls as if you are in the US even when you are not. A Virtual Number provides your business flexibility and creative solutions for your international communities of interest.

Mobility: Have your calls find you! This service offers a host of features including call forwarding, simultaneous ring, and other follow-me features so that you never miss an important call even when you are on-the-go.

Call Management: Time saving tools to point, click, and proactively manage your calls. Select which calls you will accept or which calls to forward directly to you on a remote number. Set variables for specific numbers and times of day.

With immediate, significant cost savings and features that will improve the operation of your business, AITech's VoIP will revolutionize the way you communicate!
